Get away from it all

If getting sweaty isn't your thing, and you've seen enough of the beach then don't worry, there are plenty of things to see and do on the island, and it's really easy to get around and do things yourself. Taxi prices are fixed and reasonable, but at many of the outlets along the main strip at Pantai Chenang you can rent a car for RM50 a day or a scooter for RM25, which make driving a cheaper and more flexible option than a taxi, and it's well worth hiring a car for at least one day to make a tour of the island. The following are all easy to access;

SEVEN WELLS - near to Pantai Kok are the Seven Wells waterfalls, which are some of the most spectacular in Malaysia, and you can hike right to the top.

CABLE CAR - it took me years to finally make the trip on the Langkawi Cable Car, near to Seven Wells, and I certainly wasn't disappointed! The ride takes you high above the jungle, from where you get panoramic views right across the island, and on a good day towards Thailand. There's also a spectacular suspended walkway between the gorges close to the summit.

ISLAND HOPPING - take a day, or half day tour, around the islands, hopping off at different places for a swim, a stroll or even
